History mystery: Battalion 101: Why did they shoot? 1	History mystery: Battalion 101: Why did they shoot? 2
Peer pressure – they did it because their mates were doing it	They were anti-Semitic (hated Jews)
History mystery: Battalion 101: Why did they shoot? 3	History mystery: Battalion 101: Why did they shoot? 4
They were evil, blood thirsty men who loved killing	They were cowards
History mystery: Battalion 101: Why did they shoot? 5	History mystery: Battalion 101: Why did they shoot? 6
During the war time people lose their sense of what's right and wrong	They were frustrated because they were too old to join to the Army and fight for their country
History mystery: Battalion 101: Why did they shoot? 7	History mystery: Battalion 101: Why did they shoot? 8
This was a good way to advance your career. You didn't want to be seen as a trouble-maker by refusing to join in	Hitler had the answers to making Germany great again. If he said this was the best way to do it then that was a good enough reason
History mystery: Battalion 101: Why did they shoot? 9	History mystery: Battalion 101: Why did they shoot? 10
They had always hated the Poles	They believed that they had no choice. If they refused to do it, they might be shot
History mystery: Battalion 101: Why did they shoot? 11	History mystery: Battalion 101: Why did they shoot? 12
It was safer to carry out orders, no matter how awful, than fighting at the Fronts with the rest of the German army	They saw the Polish Jews as responsible for Germany's difficulties in the war
History mystery: Battalion 101: Why did they shoot? 13	History mystery: Battalion 101: Why did they shoot? 14
They wanted to show each other how hard they were	The Nazis had brainwashed them, so they didn't think there was anything wrong in doing this
History mystery: Battalion 101: Why did they shoot? 15	History mystery: Battalion 101: Why did they shoot? 16
They were just carrying out orders	They were mad